"FLU" CASES NOW NUMBER 21

Health Officials Prepare For Emergencies as Physicians Report Gradual Spread—In Lighter Form And Fewer Cases Become Pneumonia This Year.

With twenty-one cases of flu reported and a number of more cases expected to be reported today to the board of health, Dr. Frank A. Johnston, the health officer, is busy perfecting an organization to care for flu cases in case of an epidemic. While the flu cases so far reported to the health board have the same symptoms as the epidemic of 1919, the disease seems to be a lighter form. Dr. Johnston said that the number of pneumonia cases developing from the flu was also smaller than last year.

In preparation to care for an epidemic if one breaks out in the city, Dr. Johnston is today busy securing the necessary data as to the number of cases that can be used and the number of nurses available to care for flu cases. He said that the Knights of Columbus have offered the use of their building on Broadway which will be used as an annex to the Benedictine Sanitarium. The Elks have also offered the use of their club house on Fair street for a hospital to care for patients.

The twenty-one cases that were reported up to early today were the patients of but three or four physicians, and it is understood that several other city physicians will report a number of cases today. One physician was said to have received seventeen phone calls Sunday.

This morning's New York Sun contains some timely advice regarding the "flu" situation, as follows: Every citizen has the power to do two things which will help himself and help his neighbors in the fight against the influenza.

One of these things is keep warm physically and cool mentally. Nothing will be gained and much may be lost by persons who allow themselves to become excited and alarmed over the possibility of infection. The cheerful, confident citizen runs a much slighter chance of disease than the individual who is constantly worrying about his condition.

The other precaution everybody can take is to comply good naturedly with the regulations established by the board of health, and to help others to comply with them.

These regulations are generally the same as those which were put in force when the epidemic afflicted us much more severely than seems likely to be the case this year.

There is a factor of encouragement this year which we did not have before. The influenza bacillus has been isolated and recognized. The medical men now have knowledge of the cause of the disease to guide them in combating it. It should not take science long to produce an antitoxin of reasonably certain action against the malady.

CHIPP WILL BE PARADE MARSHAL

Fire Chief Selected at Meeting of General Committee in Charge of Annual Convention of N. Y. V. F. A. to Be Held Here in June.

Fire Chief Chipp was selected as parade marshal in charge of the big parade to be a feature of the annual convention of the N. Y. V. F. A. to be held in Kingston in June, at a meeting of the general committee Sunday afternoon at the Central Fire Station. The convention will be held on June 15, 16 and 17, and the parade will be held the afternoon of the last day.

Five fire companies have already accepted an invitation to be present. They are Phoenix, South River and Young America of Poughkeepsie, Wiley Hose of Catskill, and Chapman Hose of Newburgh.

The offer of the use of their building by the Knights of Columbus was accepted. The dining committee, of which Casper Ketterer is chairman, has fixed June 16 as the big dinner day. A committee was appointed to see the Ulster County Automobile Club and arrange to have autos to take the delegates at the convention for a ride around the Ashokan reservoir on the second day of the convention.

St. John's News.
Owing to the funeral of F. Houser of No. 1 Fifth street occurring on Tuesday afternoon the regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary has been postponed this week to Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This will be the annual meeting when officers for the coming year will be elected. Therefore a tall attendance is desired. Postmaster William C. ## SPECIAL C. OF C. COMMITTEE

Named to Help Develop Summer Resort Possibilities of This Section As An Asset to City—Paul, Who Talks Friday, Knows the Game.

Summer tourist business is without question the greatest industry of this part of New York state. Kingston has an opportunity equalled by few summer places in the east. This opportunity has been taken advantage of to only a very slight extent.

The Chamber of Commerce proposes to give special attention to the cultivation of this tremendous asset of the city.

President Charles R. O'Connor announced this morning the appointment of a special committee on summer development and tourist accommodations.

The committee is made up of C. H. Lovin, chairman, W. C. DeWitt, Louis Stock, A. C. Connelly, C. V. A. Decker, V. A. Gorman, Joseph M. Herbert, W. J. Turck, George Schryver, W. H. Niles, A. W. Hoffman, S. C. Schultz, G. B. Tebow, A. D. Pardee, Roy Sullivan and Judge Joseph M. Fowler.

The work of the committee will be to plan for adequate publicity concerning the attractiveness of Kingston for the tourist, the summer guest and the permanent resident.

It will follow this up by studying and planning to meet the pressing needs for increased accommodations and for further means of entertainment of our guests.

It is the firm belief of all those who have been interested in this matter that Kingston has every attraction needed to make it a summer place of national reputation.

On Friday evening W. C. Paul, of the Automobile Blue Book, will be the guest of honor at a Chamber of Commerce smoker held in the Elks' Club under the joint direction of this committee and the industrial committee. Mr. Paul has been a frequent visitor to this city and this region. He is also acquainted with practically every resort and residential city of the United States and Europe. He has a firm faith in the possibilities of Kingston and will bring to their discussion the point of view of an outsider who appreciated the very exceptional nature of attractions to which Kingstonians are so accustomed that they find it hard to realize their full value and possibilities.

Mr. Paul's introductory talk will be followed by an open discussion.

TO HOLD FARMERS' INSTITUTES

The Ulster County Farm Bureau Association has planned to hold the following Farmers' Institutes during the week beginning Feb. 2nd and ending on Feb. 6th.

These meetings consist of a morning and afternoon session. The morning session begins at 10:30 o'clock and the afternoon session at 1:30. There will be three Farmers' Institute speakers in addition to the Farm Bureau Manager and the Home Demonstration Agent. It is expected to have lectures and discussions on soil fertility, dairying, orchard management, fruit growing and Farm Bureau problems. The topics of discussion for the Home Bureau will be clothing, emergencies and Home Bureau problems.

It is hoped that all farmers who live in the different communities will plan to be present at one of the meetings.

FAST BOXING HERE THURSDAY

Vincent Coffey of this city and Willie Chrysler of Newburgh are rounding into shape for their ten round bout Thursday night at the Kingston Athletic Club. Coffey is a light-weight champion of the Hudson river valley and Thursday's battle should settle that question once and for all.

An eight round bout that will be of interest will be staged by the well known boxer Coffey, who will meet either Charlie Fulkerson of Evans of New York. If Fulkerson, who has been offered the match, does not reply by today the club will secure Evans, who is just as fast.

In addition to these two main bouts the club expects to stage two preliminaries of four rounds each.

Sunday Automobile Club.
James Porter was removed from 1 Broadway to the Kingston City Hospital on Sunday.

Mrs. Swart was removed from the Kingston City Hospital to Second avenue that day.

Mrs. Oliver Park of Kew-Forest was removed from the O. & W. train to the Kingston City Hospital that evening.

TROOPERS ALL EX-SERVICE MEN

Major Chandler's Annual Report Says Sheep-Raising Is Coming Back In State As Result of State Troopers' Work—High Standard of Personnel.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 26.—(Special)—Just what a man must be to be a member of the State Troopers, is stated in the annual report of Major George F. Chandler, the commanding officer of the men who during the past year have performed all manner of duties and raised to a high standard of excellence an organization which when it was first formed had enemies because the work of the troopers was misunderstood. At present only ex-service men are wanted.

In the course of his report to the legislature, transmitted today, Major Chandler has this to say concerning the requirements he exacts before one may throw a booted leg over the back of a horse and salute his commanding officer:

"To be a trooper a man must be able to swim, dive, ride a horse, drive a motor vehicle, know the Penal Code and how to present evidence and be a good witness; he must be physically perfect, fairly well educated so that he is able to make out a good report, must have courage to go anywhere and to get the man he is after, even though the worst type of an insane man with a gun. A trooper must be absolutely honest, of good morals, a soldier and a gentleman."

"We have such men—more than 200 of them—and the only trouble we have is in keeping them in the department. The work of a trooper brings him into frequent contact with employers of men who are looking for just such a type in other occupations. Because of this we have lost many valuable men who have accepted positions to their own great advantage and to the great loss of the department."

"Practically every man in this department is an ex-service man. No recruits are now taken unless they have had military training. In the police schools which are held daily, the troopers learn a certain amount of law, study first aid work and learn sanitary quarantine regulations."

Attention is called to the fact in the report that vicious and unlicensed sheep-killing dogs are being rapidly eliminated by the troopers and that as a result the sheep raising industry in the state has received a noticeable impetus.

TREATY HOPES FADE AGAIN

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Prospects of an early settlement of the peace treaty controversy passed again today when Senator Lodge served notice on the members of the bipartisan conference that he would not surrender any of the guarantees included in the Lodge reservations.

The re-worded reservations presented last week which made concessions on several points are not brought up at today's conference.

A HEARING ON BUS PETITIONS

A public hearing will be held on Tuesday evening, February 3, by the common council on the petitions received to run auto bus lines from Rosendale and Saugerties to Kingston. The Hiram line running from Rosendale to this city and the Klemm line running from Saugerties to Kingston have filed petitions with the city clerk. Under the ordinance a public hearing must be held before the petitions are granted.

Cohen's Semi-Annual Sale.

Preparations for the big semi-annual sale of S. Cohen's are going forward. The entire stock in their big store will be reduced during the week and not only clothing but everything else will be included in the sale. The shipments of spring clothing have been received and this necessitates a clearing out of the present stock of winter garments which must be sold regardless of cost in order that the spring line may be displayed.

Learn Office Position.

Miss Loretta McElhenny, a graduate of the Normal Business School, Syracuse building, has been placed in a very satisfactory position on bookkeeper and stenographer with the Kingston City Hospital, in the new home on Sullivan street.

CITY LABORATORY WILL BE WAS A BARGAIN LAID THIS YEAR

Bought From County for One-quarter Its First Cost, Says State Department of Health Bulletin.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 26.—(Special)—In calling attention to the necessity of local laboratories, the state department of health in a bulletin just issued, points out that four years ago such a laboratory was established in Ulster county, but, because of the fact that the board of supervisors of that county were but passively interested in the project, the laboratory finally ceased to exist. Later, says the report, as the result of a diphtheria outbreak in Kingston, the necessity for a laboratory in that city was forcibly brought to the attention of both physicians and the public. Arrangements were made whereby the city was able to purchase the entire laboratory equipment from the county for about one-fourth of its original cost, with the understanding that for the county would be done without further charge in consideration of the low price at which the equipment was sold.

Mr. Medill stated at the conference that with the present labor situation and the cost of materials he would be unable to come to Kingston unless he received a contract to lay at least 50,000 yards of the paving. The board will lay as much Willite this year, it is understood, as possible.

One of the first streets on the tentative list of streets to be laid with Willite is Broadway with a surface of 37,272 yards. This would mean laying Willite from the top of the Broadway hill at Chestnut street to Academy Park. The board would like to continue the pavement, skipping the block on Albany avenue, and starting at Clinton avenue through to Main street to Wall and through Wall to North Front street.

Other streets tentatively listed are Cedar street, Foxhall avenue from Broadway to the West Shore tracks, Hasbrouck avenue from Delaware avenue to Prince street, Prince street from Hasbrouck avenue to Broadway, Lucas avenue from Green street to Forest Park, Washington street from North Front to Warren street, St. James street from Broadway to Fair street and O'Neil street.

Just how much Willite will be laid, however, depends upon how much money the board can afford to lay out for that material alone. The list of streets given is also tentative.

TROLLEY MEN'S WAGE UNCHANGED

Superintendent Tebow Notified Men's Committee This Morning That Executive Committee of Directors Had So Decided—Company Shows Defect.

Superintendent G. Burton Tebow, of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company, this morning notified a committee of the motorman and conductors of the trolley road that their request for an increase in wages had been denied by the executive committee of the board of directors.

The break of the company shows a deficit of about $2,000 for the past year, and the company has no money to grant an increase in wages at this time. It is said that the wage scale paid in Kingston is the same as in Newburgh and Poughkeepsie, where gross earnings were such larger.

GOVT MOVES TO DISMISS R. I. TEST CASE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The government today, through Solicitor General King, made a motion before the supreme court to dismiss the Rhode Island case testing the constitutionality of the prohibition and seeking an injunction against the attorney general from enforcement of the Volstead act.

The solicitor general says he will make an effort to get his motion before the supreme court early in March.

On the argument of this motion, all the issues raised by the state of Rhode Island may be decided by the supreme court, the test case settled and the constitutionality of the amendment decided.

The supreme court took under consideration the motion made by the solicitor general. It will announce its decision later.

SECRET SERVICE MEN TO TESTIFY

At Resumption of Socialist Trials

Tuesday—Amos to Try and Recant Suspended Assemblymen at Tonight's Session.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Federal agents of the department of justice swarmed into Albany early today, prepared, it is said, to testify in the investigation before the assembly judiciary committee of the five suspended Socialists, when hearings are resumed tomorrow.

Testimony of alleged speeches at secret meetings of Socialist party locals is ready to be given by these secret service men, who were planted in the meetings unknown to Socialist members and working in conjunction with the Lusk committee which has been probing radicalism.

Final attempts to recant the suspended Socialists during the inquiry into their qualifications will be made at the session of the state assembly tonight. State Assemblyman William C. Amos, New York city, Republican, will lead the fight for the Socialists. He has five resolutions ready for introduction, all of which are directed at present conduct of the trial of the Socialists.

P. T. A. SCHOOL 7

Complimented By State President—Meeting Tuesday.

The Parent-Teacher Association at School No. 7 will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon January 27 at 3:45. Dr. Van Hovenberg, physician of the public schools will speak and every mother interested in facts pertaining to the health of children should be present.

Other subjects of interest to mothers of school children will be taken up by Miss Anna Beckman and Miss A. K. Whalen. All who attended the November meeting will be interested in the following, part of a letter received from the State President Mrs. W. A. Saltford:

"I was sorry to feel rather rushed that day in Kingston but I want to congratulate the organization on the splendid work they are doing in the school. I felt that I was the guinea the day I was with you for I had a chance to hear of all these plans, also the methods of teaching and to enjoy your two splendid teachers who gave the demonstrations and I will gladly come some other day when I can give my talk."

With such encouragement from a visiting official the association at No. 7 takes up the latter half of the year's program with renewed determination for further progress in its work for the children and the school.

Cocoa, made as it is served to the children with their lunches, will be served at the close of the meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Each mother or guardian in the district is cordially invited to attend this meeting and bring her "cents" for the attendance competition. These slips of paper will be given the children to take home Tuesday noon.

Lewis Trained Here.

Willie Lewis, who is in St. Vincent's Hospital, New York city, following his shooting in a New York cabaret Sunday night, will be remembered by many people of this city, having spent several months at the Mountain View Hotel, on the Saugerties road, near the city line, about two years ago, when it was owned by Andrew Kohl of the City Hotel, Main street.

Lewis made his training headquarters there while he was training for his bout with Stanley Ketchel, which he lost. Harry Lewis also a noted ring fighter, also trained at the Mountain View Hotel, as did Charlie Griffin, who fought Bert Kovacs. Willie Lewis made many friends in this city and were looking forward to several more bouts.

VOTE TO ABANDON WASHINGTON AVE TROLLEY TRACK

Action of Trolley Company Directors

Must Be Ratified by Stockholders and Consent of Public Service Commission Obtained—Company Looking Money and 7-Cent Fare Is Alternative.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company the abandonment of the Washington avenue trolley tracks was authorized, and the matter will be taken up with the stockholders of the company within the thirty days. If action of the board of directors is ratified by the stockholders the company will ask the public service commission to grant the right to abandon that part of the Colonial Division.

In Poughkeepsie where the trolley company has been obtaining a six cent fare the company now expects to ask the public service commission for permission to increase the fare to 7 cents, but the local trolley company believes that by abandoning that part of the line on Washington avenue it will not be necessary to ask for permission to charge a 7 cent fare.

In outlining the reasons why it was decided to abandon the Washington avenue part of the Colonial Division Superintendent G. Burton Tebow made the following statement this morning:

"Notwithstanding our operation of these lines at an increased fare since April 15, 1919, and carrying 135,426 more cash and ticket passengers than during the year 1918, our books show a deficit for the year ended December 31, 1919, of $3,989.81 over and above the total receipts. Confronted with this condition of affairs at this time is a matter of serious import to the company, as we can see no way of reducing operating expenses in the near future with the present high costs. Any further increase of fares is deprecated and would meet with much opposition even if it could be obtained."

"Therefore after a careful survey of the property and the tracks now in operation in the city streets, with a detailed examination of our traffic receipts on the different lines, it is found that by the abandonment of the unprofitable section of the Colonial Division now operated in Washington avenue, between Marston street and North Front street, much relief would be afforded. While this plan would inconvenience residents of that section to some extent, it would enable the company to avoid charging 3,200,000 passengers an extra fare of one cent. In view of these facts the company has now decided to ask the Public Service Commission to grant the right to abandon this part of the Colonial Division of its lines."

"This problem is one which now confronts the entire electric railway industry of the United States. Statistics recently compiled by the Electric Railway Association show that on November 7 last the different companies operating 5,447 miles of track in the United States, are now in the hands of receivers. Twenty-two of these companies, operating 1,315 miles of tracks are in New York state. 44 companies have abandoned the operation of 461 miles of track and 63 have been dismantled and junked with $44 miles of electric track."

The board of public works is thinking seriously of placing Willite on Washington avenue, and that is one of the streets that is on the tentative list that the board has prepared. With the removal of the trolley tracks the entire street will likely be laid with Willite.

With the elimination of the Washington avenue tracks the uptown terminal of the Colonial Division will be at Washington avenue and North Front street.

LECTURED ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The annual lecture in the Christian Science Church in Kingston was delivered Sunday afternoon by Ezra W. Palmer of Denver. The lecturer was introduced by Morris Darius Givens of this city, who gave a brief review of the fundamental principles of Christian Science. An abstract of Mr. Palmer's lecture follows:

The Christian world has recognized for centuries three great verities of Spirit—that God is omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent, meaning by this that God has all power, is ever present, and is the creator and source of all knowledge. These immortal truths have been accepted by Christians, because on no other basis can we conceive of God as infinite and supreme, a God of love who sends only good gifts to His children.

But while men and women have accepted theoretically these eternal attributes of God, they have not as a matter of fact actually understood them, nor have they ordered their lives according to them. Christians have accepted in theory the proposition that God is good and all powerful, but they have lived on the basis that there are other powers to be feared, avoided, or propitiated. Now God is good, the source of all power. That fact eliminates at once and forever any other power or goodness. Therefore, if we fear disease, are avaricious, hate our neighbor, or find pleasure in any sin, we are denying the omnipotence of God—no matter what our pretensions to the contrary may be. "Thou in deeds we serve the Master," words are idle, empty prayer. All our Christian life a pretense. If the deeds are "wanting there," says the well known hymn.

Now, Christian Science corrects this discrepancy between reality and practice. No matter what the testimony of the material senses may be as to the seeming reality of evil, Christian Science holds firmly, logically and consistently, to the eternal fact of the omnipotent goodness of God, which overrules all power of sickness and sin. The writer of the Apocalypse had a "deemonstrable" knowledge of this when he declared: "The Lord God omnipotent reigneth."

Christian Science, in teaching reliance on the omnipotent goodness of God, has reinstated primitive Christianity. The great Bible characters proved that a right understanding of God destroys fear, heals disease, and frees the sinner. There is nothing mysterious about Christian Science for its practice. Christian Science is simple, natural, and scientific. Christian Scientists do not fear disease, because they know God never sent it, and that right understanding of Him completely destroys it; and they see clearly that it is useless to talk about disease, because it has no basis except human fears and false mental pictures. They do not study medical works because they do not reason from the basis of physical man. They see no value in acquiring knowledge of that which is not true. They agree with the statement of Josh Billings, who is reported to have said, "What's the use of knowin' so much if what you know ain't nothin'?"

Healing of Sickness Not the Ultimate.

The healing of the sick by spiritual means is not an end in itself. Christian Science, probes to the bottom all human ills and destroys their cause. Christian Science is a law of annihilation to everything that retards or obstructs man's advance. Spirituality, even all human beliefs of pleasure and pain, and brings to light the fact that Spirit and the spiritual universe, including men, are the only realities of being. Man lives because God lives for man's life is derived from God. Man does not exist merely to keep himself in repair or to satisfy his human desires. A man's real business in life is to know and understand God. The function of an automobile is to carry its occupants; not to undergo repairs, although its owner may at times be led to believe that the expense bill is the objective. Repairs must be made of course, if the machine does not run. So a man, when sick or sinful, must be healed, before he is prepared to realize his sonship with God. But the healings of sin and disease are only the preliminary steps by which a man comes to see that his real duty, his ideal, is to understand God and "to live according to His eternal laws." "Fear God," said the writer of Ecclesiastes, "and keep His commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." And so a man's regeneration has merely commenced when he is healed of physical ills by Christian Science. He begins to see a vision of a perfect model of punishment based on man's eternal relationship with God. He finds that a transformation of his character must take place if he is ever to attain this ideal, and that his former habits and ideals no longer satisfy him. He begins to measure himself by the model of a perfect God and perfect man, and to know that that perfection of thought which the Psalmist saw when he said: "I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with Thy likeness," and this provides regeneration and thus the individual attention of every man.

Christian Science and the War. Christian Scientists, who entered the war and those who remained at home, calmly trusted in the protecting power of ever-present Love, and their confidence was not found wanting. They proved during the great war that God is the only power and that evil is powerless, and so Christian Science soldiers have returned to tell us that they escaped "scatheless" when menaced by shells, bullets, gas, and submarine, and they escaped these dangers because they knew unceasingly that "The great I Am" the omnipotent God of Israel, protects His own and rules the universe in righteousness.

But above the ruins of autocratic governments that have fallen in their struggle against principle arises the rainbow promise of a federation of men and nations based on divine justice, a federation where right, not might prevails. The covenant of nations to prevent wars and to relieve the oppressed has its conception on a right basis and is a long step toward that divine unity of men and nations of which the multitude of the heavens host sang above the hills of Judea, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." Likewise, did not the English poet foresee this coming event of nations when he sang:

"Men, my brothers, men the workers,
Ever reaping something new;
That which they have done but earliest of the things that they shall do:

Till the war-drum throbb'd no longer,
And the battle-flags were furled
In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world."

As time goes on it will be more and more clearly seen that love is mightier than hate, that divine understanding supercedes human wisdom, that spiritual strength succeeds brute force, that human thought will no longer rest upon matter, but will look to Spirit as the only cause and creator and men will refuse to be influenced by selfish considerations but will live on the basis that "In Him (God) we live, and move, and have our being," as St. Paul declared. This period of reconstruction, this destruction of mortal conceptions and the unfolding of divine ideas, is now moving swiftly forward and the past few months have witnessed the downfall of two modern Jerichos—military autocracy and, in the United States, the liquor traffic—and great was the fall of those twin evils. Speaking of the part Christian Scientists are taking and continue to take in this purifying process, in which human passions are being destroyed and the Science of Christianity is being discerned, Mrs. Eddy said (Science and Health, pp. 26-27), "During this final conflict, wicked minds will endeavor to find means by which to accomplish more evil; but those who discern Christian Science will hold crime in check. They will aid in the rejection of error. They will maintain law and order, and cheerfully await the certainty of ultimate perfection."

Ex-King Ludwig of Bavaria

The aged ex-king Ludwig of Bavaria is reported to be in great financial distress in Switzerland. According to reports from Switzerland the former monarch is eking out a frugal existence on donations from relatives. The recent auctioning of Ludwig's property by the Bavarian government was followed by an offer of $10,000 to Ludwig by the government as the first installment on the amount voted to him. Ludwig refused the offer and has since depended on his relatives, most of whom are also feeling the pinch of necessity.

Good Old Oudeen Coming Back.
History moves in cycles. So the cornucopia of it's coming back to popularity. One finds it on the streets, in the work-shops, behind the polished doors of the bank directors' rooms. It is an old friend, returning in its old dress.
The reason? Just because, perhaps, forward-looking prices of other, more "fancy" have driven thousands of clear-sighted buyers back to the pipe. And pipe smokers know that there is no more sweet as the Oudeen tobacco.
It, for decades, has been the favorite of the man's study, and the hunter's, and the outdoor man's in general. The pipe, the Oudeen and pipe of various plays and words have their following. But any of these devices are old, even in a while, to pick up one of Mark Twain's favorite words, "old" has up to the top and put for the show.
The Oudeen pipe is shown in price but is worthy a permanent purchase, when it comes to solid comfort. Watch the Oudeen pipe on by—Oudeen Pipe.

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA INSTALL

On Thursday evening of last week, Court Santa Maria, Daughters of Isabella entertained about one hundred members at their rooms at the K. of C. Home. The occasion was the installation of officers and a social hour.

Miss Florence Muldoon, district deputy of Hudson conducted the impressive ceremonies, assisted by Mrs. James B. Connelly as monitor. After the installation Miss Muldoon gave an interesting talk on "For the Good of the Order." The incoming grand regent, Mrs. John W. Howley, was welcomed by Mrs. Daniel Murphy in a felicitous speech and was presented with an armful of flowers from the members of Court Santa Maria, with best wishes.

Mrs. Howley expressed her thanks in a short, forceful talk on "The Cooperation of the Members, the Success of the Court."

Mrs. Murphy also presented Miss Winifred Sullivan, the retiring grand regent with a handsome monogram traveling bag, and Miss Sullivan in her own pleasing manner expressed her deep appreciation of the gift and thanked each and every one for their loyalty to her during her term of office. Miss Sullivan has long been an efficient officer of Court Santa Maria having served for three years as financial secretary, and as grand regent three years, giving of her best and serving faithfully and well.

On behalf of the court members Miss Sullivan then presented the past district deputy, Mrs. Leary, with a large bouquet of beautiful flowers. In her presentation speech, covering the time from the inception of the order to the present time, Miss Sullivan noted that it had had Mrs. Leary as one of its most capable leaders, having served first as vice-regent, next as grand regent for three years. She was then appointed district deputy by the state regent, Miss Larkin of New York city. This office she held for two years until resigning last November. Mrs. Sullivan, in closing said, "Mrs. Leary is a leader without a peer, not only in D. of I. circles but in all other circles as well. She has endeared herself to every one by her sunny disposition and charming personality."

Mrs. Leary responded very graciously and the musical program which she had arranged was then given. This included a delightful piano solo, "Drifting," by Miss Gertrude Rafferty; a thrilling reading, "The Dying Soldier," by Miss Katharine Matthews and a charming vocal solo, an Aria, from Les Huguenots, sung by Mrs. Leary, herself.

The social hour which followed was particularly pleasant and like a large family party closed with the serving of light refreshments by Mrs. Katharine Roach and her corps of efficient helpers.

Forefathers' Day.
In 1620 on the eleventh of December by the Julian calendar then in use in England, the "Pilgrims" arrived in the harbor of Plymouth, went ashore and explored the adjacent country. They found open ground, brooks and woods so situated as to be suitable for a settlement and returned to the ship to announce that they had decided to colonize on the coast. When the Gregorian calendar was adopted in England in 1752 the dates between September 2 and 11 were omitted. This brought the date of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers to December 22, which is the day now celebrated as Forefathers' day.

At Golf.
The old farmer was trying to impress upon his son, who wanted to play golf for exercise, that chopping wood would answer the purpose just as well. "Oh, no, father," said the boy. "It is the walking between strokes that makes golf such valuable exercise; that gives the legs a chance as well as the arms." "Oh, that's it, is it?" said the old man. And then he went into the yard and placed sticks of wood at intervals all around it. After this he handed the boy an ax and said: "Now, play the full course."—San Francisco Arcanaut.

About Frogs.
The name frog was applied to a person as typifying a race or nation in the "History of John Bull," by Dr. John A. Butcher, physician and wit, the friend of the famous men of letters, Swift and Pope. In this book, published in 1712, "Nick Frog" is the name given to the Dutchman, not to the Frenchman. Frogs are also called "Dutch Nightingales."

Thousands in Pilgrimage.

Saturday after eating dinner he went out doors to shovel the snow from the walk. Later he entered the house and remarked that he felt well enough to return to work Sunday. He was upstairs to lie down and shortly afterward the family heard him scream. They hurried to his bedside but he was beyond help. Death is thought to have been due to acute indigestion. Shoppers Demand for Fur.
Shoppers here are almost actively shipped in the raw state. Very few furs are sent abroad, the exception being Tibetan lamb, mink (purchased from state), and a few other varieties. The great demand for fur in all countries and the heavy competition in the trade has put up the prices of raw furs to figures unheard of a few years ago. Sables have enormously increased in value, due to the short supply and the closure of the Russian sable market.

Port of Shanghai.
The port of Shanghai does perhaps 60 per cent of the entire foreign trade of China, and of the total imports of Shanghai for the year 1930, the United States furnished about 10 per cent. Chinese industries which are prospering are cotton spinning, shipbuilding and flour milling. Railway projects command attention.

Bust of Edison.

The heroic bust of Thomas A. Edison, by Onorio Ruotolo, noted Italian sculptor of New York, which is said to be the most striking and lifelike portrayal of America's electrical wizard ever made. Mr. Edison will celebrate his seventieth birthday on February 20. Ruotolo attracted much attention by his famous "Prince of Spawards" bust of Cardinal Mercier and his bas-relief of "Belgium," which was presented to the heroic Cardinal during his recent visit to this country.

BOTH SLIGHTLY IN ERROR

Physician and Lovelock Youth Were Alike Too Quick to Jump to Conclusions.

There's a certain physician in Los Angeles who admits the joke's on him. Incidentally, he will shortly lose his daughter. He tells it this way:

"I was in my study when the door was flung open and in came Jack. I know him well, and just a glance told me that he was far from being his usual self. Indeed, he looked positively ill.

"Without waiting for him to speak I commenced an examination. His heart was fluttering, his brow was fever heat, his pulse was racing.

"I sprang toward the phone, crying over my shoulder, 'You're a case for the hospital, young man.'

"Sure," he admitted; 'but you might have let me ask you first!'

"Ask me what? I demanded in astonishment.

"I want to marry your daughter," he said, and then I realized that I had made the wrong diagnosis and that he had misconstrued my reference to the hospital."—Los Angeles Times.

HISTORIANS HAVE NOT SAID

Of Course There Is Just a Possibility That Mrs. Patrick Henry Was Unsympathetic.

They were having one of the usual family quarrels over his having been at a meeting at the Commercial club while she was "at home all alone and so lonesome."

"You don't wish me to have any city or country spirit, either," he finally told her hotly. "I wonder where our country would be today if all the men who have lived in it had stayed at home and petted their wives all their off hours as you are wanting me to do for you?"

"Well, the women always suffer," she retorted. "Public men never have time to appreciate their wives and sympathize with—"

Then he interrupted her. "Oh, that cry for sympathy" (he was angry now). "I suppose that it's a national cry. I imagine that while Patrick Henry was at the Virginia legislature making his famed speech, 'Give me liberty or give me death,' that Mrs. Patrick H. was at home wailing, 'Give me sympathy or give me death.'"—Indianapolis News.

Shakespeare Down to Date.

Justice Wayne, dramatic actress, finds an explanation of the question as to why Shakespearean plays seldom win financial reward in what she terms Shakespeare's inability to give his productions catchy titles. She suggests a repertoire of the bard's plays rechristened to meet popular demands for stimulating titles. She suggests "How Could You Juliet?" as more appropriate than plain "Romeo and Juliet." She also would substitute "Call of the Flesh" for "The Merchant of Venice;" "Strangled in Bed" for "Othello;" "The Natty Princess" for "Hamlet;" "Henry, Whom Do You Love?" for "Henry V.;" "Big Dick" for "Richard the Third;" "The Knife" for "Julius Caesar;" and "Moonlight and Honeyuckle" for "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

DON'T BE AFRAID

To take medicine when you know what you are taking. There seems to be a strong prejudice against a certain class of so-called Patent Medicine. Perhaps this is justified to a certain extent, but don't condemn them all simply because they are ready made medicine. There are many quacks and fakers among doctors, but of course you wouldn't condemn the entire medical profession because of that. Let each stand on its own record. If we cannot convince by evidence of the virtue of our medicine, the honesty of our method, don't have anything to do with us or our medicine.

A Traveling Shop.

Margaret Fillingham, an English ex-service woman, declares that she simply could not perform indoor duties after her out-of-doors work in the army, so she and a friend bought, first a hawker's license, then a caravan and finally a stock of women's small wares, and now they are traveling from town to town in England dispensing their wares along the way.

According to Miss Fillingham they have made a hit. Their rural and small town sisters promise them their patronage and invite them to call regularly.

STARTING MOTOR DURING WINTER

One of Simplest Ways Is Through Application of Heat to the Carburetor.

PLAN OF EFFICIENT DEVICE

Illustration Given Herewith Gives Good Idea of What Is Wanted—Carbon Filament Lamp Is Particularly Adapted.

One of the simplest ways to start an automobile during cold weather is through application of heat to the carburetor. Most appliances to perform this particular duty are complicated and costly. The following device, which can be made by the amateur workman, will be found easy to construct and wonderfully efficient.

Use Metal Shield.
Put out a metal shield, somewhat after the pattern shown in the sketch. The shape and size depend upon your particular make of carburetor, but the drawing gives a general idea of what is wanted. Bend the two sheet lugs in to form shoulders and then fit the longer lugs around the body of the carburetor.

Metal Shield to Hold an Ordinary Electric Globe Close to the Carburetor.

After the shield is properly fitted, take it off and secure a lamp socket in the inside so that the bulb, when in place, will bear close to the carburetor. Use a carbon filament lamp as it gives the maximum amount of heat. Lead the wires from the base out through holes in the shield; being careful to insulate them from the metal. When all is complete, put the shield back in place and wrap the whole apparatus with thin asbestos paper. Then find it on with the wire.

Connect the wires with the storage battery of the car and with a convenient switch on the dash.

In the severest weather, this device will insure sufficient heat to start an automobile with but very little delay.—L. B. Robbins, in Popular Science Monthly.

TREND TOWARD CAR HEATERS

Winter Driving Requires Some Form of Heating for Tonneau of Car for Comfort.

An outstanding feature of motor car production this season is said to be the trend toward car heaters. Twenty manufacturers are equipping all or part of their closed lines with heaters. Some automobile manufacturers think before long the heater will be regarded as a necessary part of standard equipment, since comfort in winter driving requires some form of heating for the tonneau for the car. This applies particularly to open-topped cars.

JACK RAISES OR LOWERS CAR WITHOUT CRAWLING UNDER TO MAKE ADJUSTMENT

A new device, known as the "Jack-Raiser," has been developed by a Massachusetts manufacturer. The device is a long one when extended, permitting the operator to put the device in place and raise or lower the car without crawling under the machine. Tail bearings carry the lift and support, a turn on the handle in one direction lifting the car and a turn in the other direction lowering it, and the operator is said to be much easier than that of the ordinary jack. When not in use the jack folds up compactly and is carried in a small bag.

TO REPLACE CURRENT IN AVERAGE BATTERY

When Overdrawn It Is Likely to Cause Much Discomfort.

Liquid in Fully Charged Battery Will Stand "Below Zero" Temperatures—Connections of Two Main Cables Must Be Tight.

Average batteries are of different sizes and have capacities from 60 amperes hours up. A pair of good headlights may discharge the battery at five amperes. This means they alone would exhaust a completely charged six-hour battery in twelve hours. To replace this current you would have to drive the car probably seven or eight hours when charging at the rate of ten amperes.

An average winter cranking will consume enough current to require from six to twelve miles driving to replace it.

An overdrawn bank account may cause mental discomfort. An overdrawn battery account is apt to cause discomfort—both mental and physical.

The liquid (electrolyte) in a fully charged battery will stand "below zero" temperatures. In a discharged battery it will freeze at a much higher temperature. This is reason for special economy in cold weather. The liquid also should be kept well above the plates. Offer a battery a drink at least once in two weeks, but—in cold weather—only just before a run. Water added to the electrolyte will mix only when the battery is charging or discharging. Before such mixing it is just clear water and will freeze at 32 degrees.

The two main cable connections at the battery must be tight. Loose connections have been the cause of much hand cranking. Look at these contact posts occasionally, and if green corrosion appears, disconnect the terminals and clean all surfaces well. Corrosion working in between the post and the cable terminal, between the end of the wire cable itself and the sleeve terminal it is soldered into, interferes with the free flow of current into and out of the battery.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

Do not let engine run when car is standing.

Steadily avoid spilling leakage and evaporation.

The spring clips are, in nine out of ten cases, neglected car parts.

Have the carburetor adjusted to give largest possible mileage per gallon.

One of the surest ways to shorten the life of a tire is the continual driving in deep ruts.

Do not fasten chains too tightly nor to a spoke. Many a tire has been ruined by disregarding this advice.

Leaky Valve Guides Will Cause Misfiring, Especially at Low Speeds, Air Being Sucked in and Diluting the Mixture.

A source of noise that is frequently overlooked is the case covering the timing gears. It should be kept filled with lubricant.

A small quantity of glycerin applied to the wind shield with a piece of clean waste will help keep the glass clean when driving in the rain.

The penalty of non-lubrication is wear. The penalty of wear is noise and the penalty of noise is discomfort. In other words, oil and be comfortable.

KEEPING FASHIONABLE

By R. RAY BAKER

Eliza Correll believed in clothes.

"Clothes make the man," she told her sister repeatedly. "Some day you'll learn that you ought to dress up more and keep fashionable."

Certainly Eliza kept fashionable. Eight dollars constituted her weekly spend, earned by taking tempting portions at Silverworth's drug store. Eliza was one of a half-dozen girls who presided within the circular formation of marble at which "telephone" sales were served, and the high cost of living, the fate of the League of Nations, the future of Jugoslavia and the salaries of the film stars discussed.

But the eight dollars—to return to the subject, off the eight dollars, two went for board and room and the remaining six were expended to adorn Eliza with fashion's latest creations. Board and room for two dollars a week? Yes, you see Eliza lived at home, as did her sister Isabel.

Isabel clerked in Eliza's dry goods store, and her share of the world's goods every week was seven dollars. Of this seven two went for board and room, five cents purchased cinema thrills at the Palace theater, an average of 48 cents was used for wearing apparel, and $3.11 was deposited in the bank.

Contrasted with Eliza's extensive and expensive wardrobe, Isabel's adornment was like a minnow unto a goldfish; yet the latter seemed satisfied with her lot in life and never complained about her rather drab, nevertheless neat, attire.

Nor was there reason to complain; for Isabel could have afforded more attractive garb as well as her young or sister-could better afford it, in wedding clothes, the two girls should have changed positions. Silk at a soda fountain was as out of place as cotton behind the silk counters, where Isabel presided. Yet each of the girls was an expert in her particular line of endeavor.

Eliza had a secret. She was in love. Every afternoon there came into Silverworth's drug store a fashionable, neatly dressed young man, who had the gingerale habit. The sun might forget to shine, the clock might stop, the river might run dry, but always at 2 p.m. John Hendricks sat down at his favorite place in the marble counter (unless some one else got there first) and ordered gingerale.

Then he would plunge into the depths of a newspaper and remain absorbed in it until his beverage arrived, when he would fold the paper, thrust it into a pocket and sip of the cooling concoction, while his eyes roved abstractedly and looked at nothing in particular, although seeming to take in everything and everything in his range of vision.

Yes, Eliza Correll loved John Hendricks. She did not know his name, she had no knowledge of his vocation, she had never spoken a word to him or been addressed by him except on a matter of business. She waited on his order, but John Hendricks noticed her not at all.

Being in love with some one she did not know Eliza felt that it behooved her to interest him if it lay in her power; so she paid even more attention to her clothes and deplored her own ill-fortune in not being able to make herself what she called "presentable" before the "gingerale fiend." He it said in her credit that she did not purchase her raiment on credit.

"There's one hopeful thing about it," she told herself. "He's a brute and I'm a blunderer and they say that's the way it ought to be."

It seemed fine to be in love, even if it was unrequited, Eliza thought, and then she got to wondering if her sister ever had experienced the exhilaration attendant on being paid attention by the little winged god of love and arrows. One day Eliza observed:

"Isabel, it's about time you got married. But there's no chance in the world for you, with those plain clothes you wear."

To which Isabel replied merely with a smile and went her way.

"She's a deep one," Eliza mused. "That's the way with brunettes. The gingerale fiend must be a deep one, too."

The next a good-looking girl and Hendricks came back to order his gingerale, and his sister, slip his drink and hurry out of the store.

When returning, as she lay in bed watching a few stars glimmer in a cloudy sky, a startling fact came into Eliza's brain. She had no clean clothes! She had been working hard on them all day and had allowed her washed garments to accumulate, she had intended to wash and mend and so on in the night before, but had forgotten to do it.

She dropped from bed, on the verge of a panic, (Hendricks) saw behind the door a pair of clean clothes? By good luck that was in her drawer. There was nothing that could be done unless she could do that, and get away with the only answer.

She slipped her dress, she was and was at the clothing store with Eliza and had been waiting for her sister. Hendricks called Eliza. "What's up?" "I've got a wash and a skirt."

of yours today? I hate to ask you, but mine aren't fit."

Isabel sat up and rubbed her eyes, and gazed, then stared at Eliza as though debating whether to lend her flims from flims.

"You want to borrow—my waist—and—skirt?" she said, as though she could not believe her ears. "You—your queen of fashion—you want to wear my plain clothes?"

Eliza felt somewhat abashed.

"Well, no, I really don't want to," she replied; "but there's nothing else to do."

So it was that Eliza Correll, fashionable place of Silverworth's soda siphon, appeared that morning in plain attire—startlingly plain; so plain that her fellow workers were awestricken and talked in undertones.

While she worked Eliza became filled with apprehension.

"What will the gingerale fiend think?" she wondered, and resolved to keep out of sight at two o'clock. But this proved impossible, for at 1:45 a rush began and every available hand was needed.

"Maybe he won't come today," Eliza thought, but she realized she might as well hope to halt time itself in its flight. Sure enough, at two o'clock in walked John Hendricks. He seated himself and waited for his order to be taken. Contrary to her ordinary course of procedure, Eliza tried to keep in the background, but all the other girls were busy, and "service" was a byword at Silverworth's.

"Well, here goes. All is lost," she murmured, and approached John Hendricks. For the first time in history he smiled at her.

"Hello," he said pleasantly. "I'd like a gingerale. You're new at this job, aren't you?"

Eliza's power of speech was paralyzed momentarily, but she managed to get it in working order long enough to stammer:

"No—oh, no; that is, not especially new. I've been here off and on."

"Never noticed you before," said the gingerale fiend. "Must be you had different hours."

Eliza declined to reply. She busied herself with the gingerale ale, while John plunged into his newspaper, laying it down to smile at her again as she returned with his favorite drink. And it was a friendly smile, a sincere smile, nothing fresh about it, as Eliza remarked afterward.

When she gave him his drink, instead of leaving, he said:

"I've asked Miss Joyce to bring down a couple of tickets to the Temple theater tonight."

Miss Joyce, another soda fountain worker, the previous formally made them a reservation, and arrangements were made for the theater party.

When Isabel went home that afternoon she found Eliza enthusiastically talking at the "hashish." The news was so good to Eliza, and Isabel was interested in the big event of the day at the soda fountain. After hearing her sister's story, she said:

"Eliza, you made a hit with that young man because you were plain clothes—my clothes. Take my advice and leave off the girly stuff tonight. You can have my best dress."

Eliza completed her work at the soda fountain, and when John Hendricks called for her she was dressed in her sister's slender garments.

One week later Eliza announced to her sister that she was going to leave John Hendricks, the real cause being that she was going to be a nurse.

"Congratulations!" said Isabel. "I'm glad to hear that you're going to be a nurse. You'll be a great help to the hospital."

Mrs. Welding—the wife of the assistant manager of our store.

"Congratulations, yourself," returned Eliza. "You certainly did have the right idea about clothes, Isabel. John told me last night, when he proposed, that he had been looking for a girl who didn't overdress. After all, clothes don't make the girl. They help a lot—but they must not be overdone."

"Do you know anyone who wants to buy a second-hand wardrobe—one that's guaranteed against Cupid's arrows?"

"Smoked Irishman."
"Shure, there's no man livin' as can smoke me good County Clare brogue without feelin' th' weight o' me hands."

Sergeant James Xavier McGinnis, United States marine corps, told this to the wide world as he stepped ashore at Charleston, S. C., recently from the transport which had carried him back from two years in the West Indies. He had a tale to tell, and this is how he told it:

"On the way up," he continued (Grogue deleted for the benefit of the finicky), "we stopped off at Nassau, in the Bahamas. I was walking along the street when up to me steps one of them natives with a face as black as me old mother's stove."

"Shure an' 'tis a fine day for th' English," says he to me. I makes to stroll him, when another marine grabs me by the arm. He'd been there before, this other marine, and he explains it all.

"It seems that a hundred years ago—or maybe it was a thousand—the British sends one of their English regiments of Irishmen to the Bahamas, and the natives learned English from them. Ever since they've talked with a brogue."

Few Town Criers Left.

There are hardly any town criers left in England now. At Wycombe, this town, which has been held by members of one family for 50 years, lapses with the resignation of the present holder, "Alfred eyed eyes" and the ringing of the bell will cease to be heard in the little old town, as it has ceased to be heard in many towns within the last ten years. In rural districts of France, by the way, public proclamations are made by the "gardi champetre," a kind of keeper, or village policeman, whose office embraces various functions. Evidently in Shakespeare's day common criers had no great reputation for extraordinary skill, for Hamlet addresses his players: "Speak the speech . . . trippingly on the tongue; but if you mouth it . . . I had as lief the town crier spoke my lines."

Large College Attendance.

There were 25,000 students enrolled in a scattering of 11 universities and colleges in the United States, taking degrees of bachelors for October, according to a statement issued by the Intercollegiate Association. The enrollment of the colleges named, which are generally indicative of heavy college attendance, are as follows: University of Michigan, 8,550; New York University, 2,614; Ohio State University, 2,204; University of Wisconsin, 2,242; University of Pennsylvania, 2,448; University of Texas, 2,420; Yale University, 2,491; University of Kansas, 2,386; Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, 2,282; University of Missouri, 2,116; University of California, 2,000.

SAW BIRTH OF GREAT MEN

Year 1800 Was Remarkable for the Advent of a Number of Personages Who Won Distinction.

During 1800 occurred the births of more distinguished persons than in any other year of the last century. It is, of course, just possible, though not at all likely, that during one of the last few years of the century there may have been born children whom the future will prove to be as great as those who saw the light in 1800, but all probabilities are against it. It would be truly marvelous should any one of those years have brought into being celebrities whose names shall one day rank with those of the Americans Lincoln, Poe and Holmes; the Englishmen Darwin, Tennyson and Gladstone; and the English woman Elizabeth Barrett Browning; the German Mendelssohn and the Pole Chopin. These names stand for achievement in statesmanship, literature, music and science that must remain unparalleled so far as human intelligence can foresee. The eighteenth century had such a year in 1780, which has been called "The Year of Great Babies."

The conditions of career of achievement, the opportunities that came to these notabilities in their youth as hardly be repeated.

To those who believe in the mystic properties of numbers there will be significance in the fact that 1800 belongs a series of significant dates that seem to be connected in some occult way with human liberty. Though we may admit that there is an real significance in the coincidence, it is at least interesting to know how many dates ending with the figure 9 have been notable for marking eras in human freedom.

Beginning with the Christian era, the year 9 saw the first great victory of the Germanic tribes under Hermann, or Arminius, the first rising of that power which was to destroy the Roman empire and make civilization Germanic. The year 19 is the date of the Declaration, most significant of all in the history of human liberty.

Out of Gun.

I was invited to dinner at the home of some friends, where I met a number who were strangers to me. The party was congenial, and I was pleased with my new acquaintances. When we left I volunteered to take several women home in my automobile. We had gone but a short distance when my gasoline supply gave out. At a garage near by I discovered that I did not have the price of a single gallon of gasoline. Returning, I informed the party, regretfully, that the man who had the key to the gasoline pump would not return for an hour, and that, instead of waiting, it probably would be better for them to seek the street cars, which they did. ## INCOME TAX INFORMATION

Following is information on the state income tax as prepared by State Comptroller Travis:

185. Registrar: I receive certain salaries paid to me by the military training commission of New York State. Is this taxable income?

A. Yes.

186. Real Estate: I have been the owner of some business property since 1914. What may I do about deductions for depreciation?

A. You may deduct a reasonable allowance for the year 1919. Such amount should be a sum, which when set aside for the taxable year in accordance with a consistent plan by which the aggregate of such sums for the useful life of the property in the business will suffice with the salvage value, at the end of such useful life to replace the cost of the property or its value as of January 1, 1919, if acquired by the taxpayer before that date.

187. Professor: I am a college professor. May I deduct amounts paid out for professional books used directly in the subjects which I teach?

A. No, these are considered investments, but you may deduct a reasonable amount for depreciation.

188. Attorney: I am not exclusively employed by a railroad under federal control but am on the legal staff of one, trying cases in various courts and always having in my office some work of this kind. Are the amounts which I receive from the railroad company through their federal treasurer exempt from taxation?

A. Yes, on the assumption that such payments are made from moneys of the United States government.

189. Accountant: In March and August, 1919, I received certain payments in connection with an estate. This work was performed and the amount to be paid was determined prior to January, 1918, and practically all the work done prior to 1919. Is this taxable income to me for the year 1919?

A. No.

190. Tradesman: My son, aged 22, works in my store and I pay him less than $1,000 a year. How do I treat this in my tax return?

A. This is a business expense.

191. R. M. L.: I have an endowment policy which will not mature until 1925. Each year the company credits me with dividends which occasionally I use for reduction of the premium or for the purchase of additional paid up insurance. How do I treat the amount which I received from this source in 1919?

A. Such amounts are not required to be included in your gross income.

192. Retired: I live in Brooklyn and during 1919 made donations to Princeton University and Dartmouth College. Are these deductible if they do not exceed 15 per cent of my net income?

A. No; the New York state law only allows deductions to residents for contributions of this character made to corporations or associations organized under the laws of New York state.

193. Bronx: Do you consider assessments under the Bronx Valley sewer act general taxes or those for local improvement?

A. Because of the phraseology of the law authorizing these assessments and the long term over which they are distributed, they are regarded as taxes and, therefore, may be deducted from gross income.

194. Red Cross: During 1919 I was engaged in war work at the Red Cross, receiving a per diem allowance in lieu of expenses. My sister during that year was in welfare work at the Y. M. C. A. on a similar payment basis. As residents shall we consider these amounts in our income reports?

A. Allowances so received in place of expenses are to be included in gross income. You may, however, deduct from such amounts the actual and necessary expenses for meals, transportation and lodging.

195. Insurance: My home was damaged by fire in August, 1919. The insurance policy just about equalled the cost of rebuilding. Is any of this amount income?

A. No.

196. Contractor: Am I right in understanding that payments to me on account of street work by the city of Albany are to be included in my gross income?

A. Yes. Of course you could also deduct therefrom your necessary business expenses.

197. Inventor: On July 1st, 1919, I sold a patent to a manufacturing concern for $3,000. Is this amount taxable or, if not, how do I compute the amount to be included in my income?

A. You should determine the increase in value of the patent between Jan. 1, 1919, if you had it perfected before that time, and the date you sold it, reduced of course, by necessary business expenses. If the patent was perfected after January 1, 1919, the entire sale price is income.

COLD VICKI VAPOR VICKI VAPOR

198. Suburban: Early in 1919 I bought a large tract of land for $10,000, dividing it into fifty lots. In that year I sold three lots for $400 each. Meantime I had paid out $200 for legal fees in connection with the whole tract. How do I estimate the income on these transactions?

A. You should first figure the cost of the tract by lots and then compute the distinct profit on each lot for return in your 1919 income.

199. Bondholder: In 1918 I paid the investment tax on securities for a period to end June 30, 1919. What interest on such investment is exempt from taxation under the Personal Income Tax law?

A. One half of the interest accrued thereon during the taxable year 1919 is exempt.

Opportunity Days The February Furniture Sale FEBRUARY 2-14

Every Dollar Spent in a Home is a Dollar Saved

These are days of good wages and steady work—but these are also days when it behooves every family head to save his surplus earnings, at least to invest them in the substantial things of life—those that contribute to the lasting comfort of himself and others dependent upon him.

There is a golden maxim in furniture buying. The words of William Morris are repeated at this time for your February Furniture Buying. "Have nothing," he wrote, "in your homes that you do not know to be useful and believe to be beautiful." Here surely is the essence of a golden rule in home furnishing. In fact, with the addition of a provision regarding economy on investment value, his words sum up the whole philosophy of furniture choosing.

We can tell you that we have never had such a field as that which is provided in the LUCKEY, PLATT & COMPANY'S February Furniture Sale. And if there ever was a stock of furniture that comes as close as furniture can well come to the Morris ideal, we believe that ours is the stock. For our part, we have put nothing in this sale that we do not know to be useful and as beautiful as it is practical for it to be. Nor is there anything in the scores of pieces which does not represent sound economy and real investment value at these prices. Therefore, we say, attend the February Furniture Sale, February 2-14.

AS SUBSTITUTE FOR POTATO

The Cayote, Product of the Philippines,
May Be Tried Out in Our Southern States.

Tropical countries are all lacking in the Irish potato which, when all is said and done, is undoubtedly the world's staple garden vegetable. The potato is a temperate zone crop and while it will grow to some extent further south it is not a success. There are a number of starchy substitutes which thrive in the tropics, but nothing has been found which takes the place of the white potato. What is hailed, however, by the bureau of science of the Philippine islands as the coming potato of the tropics is a plant called the cayote, the roots of which are very much like the potato. The cayote seems to be a sort of cross between the yam and the sweet potato and is getting to be largely used in the Philippines as a food crop. The yield is very large, the longest root shown in the picture being 30 inches from tip to tip. The meat is very solid and can be cooked in probably as many different ways as can the white potato. Besides, it is said to make a delicious pudding. Experiments are being made to see if the cayote will grow in Florida and southern Texas, where the white potato is only an indifferent bearer.

CUT OUT RURAL TELEPHONES

Old Gentleman Had Unfortunately Selected Poor Place to Lay Spectacles for the Night.

Apparently of its own accord, a rural telephone line in the remote districts of western Colorado went on strike a short time ago for a 10-hour working day. During daylight hours the line worked beautifully, and inspection revealed no possible cause for the fact that between 9 and 10 every night its telephones went out of commission, and stayed out until morning. Finally, after serious complaint, the manager and a lineman started on a nocturnal trouble hunt. They reached the last house by morning, and were admitted by the aged occupant. Conspicuous on the top of the wall telephone were his metal-rimmed spectacles, resting in electrical contact across the terminals, where it was his habit to leave them every night upon retiring. The mystery was solved.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Two-Legged Whale.

A whale with two legs is the most recent discovery from the mysterious depths of the Pacific ocean. It was caught at the Kyushu whaling station. The creature was a female humpback, and her body was two in number, each 30 inches long, with strong bones, well covered with blubber.

Ancient whalers have never seen a whale similar to the latest capture, an exchange says. It is said that whales have atrophied legs within their bodies, but they are useless. They are thought to be hangers from the day when whales, like dinosaurs, shovelled themselves through the lush jungles or foraged the savor toothed tiger and the great cave bear.

Filmy Grounds for Divorce.

Renowned he had neither captured nor purchased his bride, according to the traditional custom of Mongolia, a young French diplomat assigned to a post in the far East, had his marriage with an American actress annulled by the French courts.

The diplomat met the American in Shanghai, and after a short courtship they eloped to Mongolia, where they were married before a Belgian Catholic missionary. Their idyll was short-lived, as the American girl within a few days departed without leaving any address.

The court held that the marriage was not valid, as French law requires Frenchmen marrying abroad to have the ceremony performed before a French diplomatic officer, or, according to the terms of the country in which the marriage is performed.

CAN THE PEACE TALK.

While was out working with his mother, then she thought he was a boy, and the other side of the street looking faces at her darling.

"Willie," asked mother, "is he looking any better today?" "He is," replied Willie, giving his best grin. "Now, mother, don't start any peace talks, you just look my way for about five minutes."

COLOMBO SOCIETY IS REORGANIZED

Sunday afternoon a meeting was held at Colombo Hall, Broadway and Thomas street, when a reorganization was effected of the Christopher Colombo Benevolent Society, about 50 members being enrolled. This was before the world war, a very flourishing society but many members went into the United States army and navy and a number went to Italy to join the army of their native country, with the result the interest died out in the local society. The local organization came off with the following officers: all representative citizens of Kingston of Italian birth. Frank Spadafora, president; Marino Palisi, vice-president; Joseph Lantana, corresponding secretary; Joseph Lantana, vice-secretary; Joseph Lantana, financial secretary; Antonio Gentile, Sr., treasurer; Giuseppe Cuneo, Giovanni Oliviero, Bartolo Leonardo, Jerry Isola, Joseph Palisi, trustee; Silvio Nenni, standard bearer; Nicola Pappalardo, Enrico Raffelli, Dan. Berreri, Joseph Emma, Ralph Erena, marshals; Antonio Gentile Jr., and Filippo Zaccaro, sergeant-at-arms. A speaker with a discussion of the aims of the order for the betterment of the members and benevolence and charity to follow contributions in need followed.

Between the halves of the games, three members of the T. V. V. troupe of Brooklyn, Charles Delora, George Poehland and Otto Poehland, gave an exhibition of gymnastic work on the parallel bars. These men went through their work with the skill of the artists which they really are. Many of their stunts were amazing and marvelous, causing the crowd to hold breath until they had seen the performers land safely on their feet on the mats.

Next Saturday night there will be some more basketball games and possibly some other added attraction, such as there was the other evening.
